

SPEAR'S WEALTH MANAGEMENT AWARDS 2017

WEALTH MANAGEMENT, BUSINESS & CULTURE

SPEAR'S

Spear's is the multi-award-winning wealth management and luxury lifestyle media brand whose flagship magazine has become a must-read for the ultra-high-net-worth (UHNW) community.

It is required reading for the affluent financial services community, including the bankers, lawyers and family offices who advise the ultra wealthy. Since its launch in 2006, Spear's has established itself as Europe's leading wealth management authority, as well as for its witty and incisive commentary on business, lifestyle and culture. Using print, digital, events, awards and research-based products and services, Spear's is uniquely placed to connect financial and luxury brands to this exclusive and elusive audience.

The Spear's readership is made up of extremely wealthy individuals and families and ranges from hedge fund managers to property developers, rock stars to Rich-Listers, entrepreneurs and entertainers.

The Spear's Wealth Management Awards

Our flagship event, the Spear's Wealth Management Awards, acknowledge and honour entrepreneurs, philanthropists and others for their innovation, success and outstanding contribution to the wealth management world and beyond.

An A list networking cocktail party and awards ceremony, the Spear's Wealth Management Awards provide a platform for over 750 of Europe's most influential and wealthiest individuals to celebrate and meet the best and most innovative individuals and companies across the high-net-worth world.

Categories range from Entrepreneur of the Year and Philanthropist of the Year to Private Banker, Family Lawyer and Property Adviser, covering every aspect of the HNW world that matters to our readers. Our shortlists, based on the work of the Spear's Research Unit, are devised with expert participation and a panel of judges then picks a winner. The event is extensively covered in Spear's magazine and digitally via Twitter and online at spearswms.com, as well as in key daily newspapers and trade press.

The awards will celebrate the very best in wealth management, private banking, law and more. For the first time this year will also celebrate the rising stars of the industry with the new Young Turk Awards. This provides the opportunity to meet the next generation of CEOs, top lawyers and senior leaders in fields from finance to law, art to property.

Tenth Anniversary

In 2006, when Spear's launched, there was nothing in the market like it. No brand which spoke to both London's HNW community and the wealth management community who serve their private client needs. No magazine that understood their specific concerns as well as having an eye for the more pleasurable and finer aspects of becoming a member of the HNW and UHNW world. Today, there is still nothing like Spear's, which is why our tenth anniversary year will be memorable and a unique opportunity to share Spear's global platform as the magazine and brand confirms its unrivalled position as the key authority on Europe's wealth landscape.

The Spear's Wealth Management Awards 2017 promise to be a spectacular celebration of this landmark. The 2015 Awards were hailed as the best in Spear's history, but we intend to make them even better: the winners even more innovative and successful, the guests even starrier and wealthier. There won't be another opportunity for you like the Spear's Wealth Management Awards 2016.

THE  TIMES

● A push-as-you'd-expect do at the Saatchi Gallery for the Spear's Wealth Management Awards on Monday. Charlie Hoffman of HSBC carted off the Private Banker of the Year gong.
The award for Most Innovative International Financial Centre (or country most adept at making it easy for you to domicile your millions without awful burdens like high taxes) went to Liechtenstein, not much known among the general public other than the answer to pub quiz questions. We suspect the tiny state didn't get to have the highest GDP per capita because of its famous local cuisine or being (apparently) the world's largest exporter of false teeth.

How to Spear the super-rich

LONDON'S REPUTATION as a haven for the mega-rich received a further boost last night with the inaugural hosting of William Cash's Spear's Wealth Management Survey awards ceremony at Sotheby's in Bond Street. Dubbed Europe's answer to Forbes the quarterly magazine is so exclusive you can only buy it if your bank balance stretches to £5 million and it is aimed at footballers to oligarchs.
Among the prize winners were Zac Goldsmith who won Green Entrepreneur of the Year "by a long way". Arpad Busson, former squeeze of Elle Macpherson, saw his organisation Ark scoop Charity of the Year — which he received enthusiastically Bamford, the company behind JCBs and more recently Daylesford Organic, won Family Business of the Year.
As the evening progressed and gongs were dished out the night began to take on the feel of an Oscars ceremony for London's movers and shakers.
Marcus Gregson won Lifetime Achievement for Outstanding Contribution to Wealth Management, and duly gave a touching appraisal of William Cash. He said: "He reminds me of my granddaughters — such maturity in such tender years." Gregson drew the loudest cheer of the night when he added: "I think London is going to be a spiffing place for years to come."

Charity king: Arki Busson

Among the crowd were Lords Weinberg and Palumbo and assorted chiefs of the hedge fund scene.

WEALTHY OUT TO PLAY FOR SPEAR'S AWARDS

Daily

PS THERE may be mixed emotions when supermarket tycoon Lord Sainsbury next sits around the dinner table with his daughter Fran. This week both were shortlisted at the Spear's magazine awards as philanthropist of the year, held at art dealer's Phillips de Pury. But it was Fran, 34, who walked off with the gong for what judges called bringing a "breath of fresh air" to the charity business in her work with the Indigo Trust, which she founded in 1999 and makes grants to African technology projects. A former policy wonk at the Cabinet Office, Fran says: "I think father will be pleased I have a career in philanthropy and that I am taking it seriously."

Londoner's Diary

The Moon and more than sixpence

TO THE Savoy, where Spear's held its annual Wealth Management Awards last night. Richard Branson was named Philanthropist of the Year, a fitting win given the lunar setting of the ceremony's programme, on which we spotted an astronaut distributing a copy of the Standard, right. Former tax lawyer

Martyn Gowar, executor of Princess Diana's will, won the Lifetime Achievement Award. During that brush with fame, Gowar was asked by The Lawyer magazine about the press hounding him. "They are very much living for the immediate moment," he said. "To the extent that they are intellectually lazy in actually going back and checking information." We hope Gowar's role as Spear's legal columnist has changed his opinion.

■ THE name's Bond. Stocks and Bonds. Tonight sees the launch of the Spear's 500, a handy guide to all the private bankers, lawyers and consultants needed by your typical Bond villain. But they face the spectre of an empty seat at their bash at The Savoy tonight.

Stonehage Fleming, shortlisted for the Next Generation category, is busy: run by a team descended from 007 author Ian, the family wealth-management firm is already hosting a screening of the new film. For clients' eyes only, unfortunately.
